The 5th eNorth East Award & Summit 2014

November 7, 2014

Aizawl, Mizoram

With much greater focus on how Information Communication Technology (ICT) tools and applications can provide need based and sustainable solutions to the problems of connectivity, public service delivery and building trust in governments in North East India, the 5th edition of the eNorth East Summit 2014 was held on November 7, 2014 at Aijal Club & Conference Hall, Assembly Secretariat, Aizawl, Mizoram. The ICT for Development programme was organized by Department of Information Communication Technology (DICT) (Govt. of Mizoram) and North East Development Foundation and co-organised by Digital Empowerment Foundation (DEF) and Public Interest Registry (PIR). Details are available at <http://enortheast.in>

The programme was scheduled into three power knowledge workshops, the Digital innovations showcasing, and the 5th eNorth East Award 2014 Gala evening. Apart from guest and invited speakers, 51 innovators and best practitioners from the North East India region whose IT/ICT applications and innovations have impacted the common people and sectoral changes including education, health, and citizen services delivery were invited to share their ideas and innovations. These 51 innovators are also the finalists of the 5th eNorth East Awards 2014. Winners were declared and felicitated on Nov 7 evening during award gala.

The event (considered as India's biggest ICT for Development programme in North East India), was organized by Department of Information Communication Technology, Govt. of Mizoram and North East Development Foundation. Other supporting major partners were National Institute for Electronics & IT (NIELIT), Digital Empowerment Foundation, Public Interest Registry, National Internet Exchange of India, INTERLACE, PAYODA, NIELIT, Internet Society, Department of Electronics & IT (Govt. of India) & National e-Governance Plan (NeGP), Open Knowledge Community and INOMY. One important highlight of the event was the presence of national level institution like NIELIT whose presence in the whole of 8 north eastern states have been highlighted especially through the presence of NIELIT Aizawl and Agartala during the event.

The theme of this year 5th eNorth East Award Summit 2014 was – ‘Digital Innovations for Citizen Services in North East India’. This year some of best minds from North East and mainstream India threw new light and perspective on the role of Pro-active Digital Inclusion approach and programmes for inclusive growth and development in North East India and thereby linking better connectivity and networking, with inclusive social and economic Development with mainstream India and rest of the world.

The focus of the Workshop 1 was on ‘DIGITAL INNOVATIONS FOR CITIZEN SERVICES DELIVERY IN NORTH EAST’ on Nov 7 had key case study presentations on ICT usage in citizen services delivery from the region and mainland India. A total of 17 presentations were lined up on best practices. The focus was on citizen participation and user satisfactions. The role of e-infrastructure in developing North East India was deliberated. Special invitees shared state experiences. This plenary was chaired by Mr. C. Lalhmachhuana, Secretary, IT, Mizoram.

The focus of the Workshop 2 was on ‘DIGITAL INNOVATIONS IN EDUCATION, LEARNING & HEALTH,’ had key presentations on health services delivery in the region. A total of 16 best practices were highlighted in this workshop. This plenary was chaired by Mr. R. Lalvena, Secretary, Department of Education, Mizoram.

The Workshop 3 was on ‘DIGITAL INNOVATIONS IN LIVELIHOOD & ENTERPRISE, COMMERCE & BUSINESS, CULTURE & HERITAGE, ENVIRONMENT & TOURISM, INCLUSION, NEWS & MEDIA,’ focused on 19 key projects and innovative practices.

The climax of this programme was the 5th eNorth East Award Summit 2014 Award Gala Evening on November 7 at 2:00 pm. The Chief Guest and other dignitaries gave away eNorth East Awards 2014 to the winners and special mentions and emerging ICT State of the Year. Altogether there were 18 winners, special mentions, and finalists who were felicitated and awarded in 12 categories. Chief

Guest of this award gala evening was Mr. Lal Thanzara, Honourable Minister of Health & Family Welfare, Minor Irrigation Dept. and Information & Communication Technology, Govt. of Mizoram. The Guest of Honour was Dr. B. D. Chakma, Minister of State, Govt. of Mizoram.

The eNorth East Award Summit has been an annual feature (a flagship initiative of North East Development Foundation (www.nedfindia.org), and Digital Empowerment Foundation (www.defindia.org), since 2010. The objective of the Award is to create a knowledge network of digital innovations and best practices in ICT for development in the region for learning, sharing, exchanging and replication for wider development and good governance purposes in the region.

The Award Summit is about scouting good practices in ICT for development & governance in North East India. The focus is on citizen services delivery, health, education, livelihood, enterprise promotion, and youth and women empowerment in the region. The first edition of eNorth East Award Summit was held in 2010 in Assam. The second edition was held in 2011 in Nagaland, the 3rd eNorth East Award Summit was held in Sikkim and the 4th eNorth East Award Summit in Arunachal Pradesh.

Aizawl hosts IT gala today

Staff Reporter

Aizawl, Nov 6:

Aizawl is playing host to the fifth edition of the 5th edition of the e-North East Summit 2014 today at two venues, Aijal Club and Assembly secretariat's conference hall.

Jointly organised by Mizoram's department of Information Communication Technology (ICT) and North East Development Foundation, the event gives greater focus on how IT tools and applications can provide need based and sustainable solutions to the problems of connectivity, public service delivery and building trust in governments in North East India.

The programme is scheduled into three power knowledge workshops, the digital innovations showcasing and the 5th e-North East Award 2014 Gala evening.

Apart from guest and invited speakers, 51 innovators and best practitioners from the North East India region whose IT/ICT applications and innovations have impacted the common people and sectoral changes including education, health, and citizen services delivery are invited to share their ideas and innovations. These 51 innovators are also the finalists of the 5th e-North East Awards 2014. Winners will be declared and felicitated on Nov 7 evening during award gala.

The event, considered as India's biggest ICT for development programme in North East India, is co-organised by Digital Empowerment Foundation (DEF) and Public Interest Registry (PIR). Other supporting major partners are Digital Empowerment Foundation, Public Interest Registry, National Internet Exchange of India, INTERLACE, PAYODA, NIELIT, Internet Society, Department of Electronics & IT (Govt of India) and National e-Governance Plan (NeGP), Open Knowledge Community and INOMY.

This year's e-North East Summit is themed 'Digital Innovations for Citizen Services in North East India'.

"This year some of the best minds from North East and mainstream India will throw new light and perspective on the role of pro-active digital inclusion approach and programmes for inclusive growth and development in North East India and thereby linking better connectivity and networking, with inclusive social and economic Development with mainstream India and rest of the world," organisers said.

The first workshop on 'Digital Innovations For Citizen Services Delivery in North East' will have key case study presentations on ICT usage in citizen services delivery from the region and mainland India. A total of 17 presentations are lined up on best practices. The focus will be on citizen participation and user satisfactions. The role of e-infrastructure in developing North East India will be deliberated. Special invitees will share state experiences.

The second workshop on 'Digital Innovations in Education, Learning & Health' will be on key presentations on health services delivery in the region. A total of 16 best practices will be highlighted in this workshop.

The third workshop on 'Digital Innovations in Livelihood & Enterprise, Commerce & Business, Culture & Heritage, Environment & Tourism, Inclusion, News and Media' focuses on 19 key projects and innovative practices.

The climax of this programme is the Award Gala Evening at 2:00 pm. Altogether there will be 18 winners, special mentions, and finalists to be felicitated and awarded in 12 categories. Minister of state Lal Thanzara will grace the award ceremony and give away the awards.

The objective of the Award is to create a knowledge network of digital innovations and best practices in ICT for development in the region for learning, sharing, exchanging and replication for wider development and good governance purposes in the region.

The award summit is about scouting good practices in ICT for development & governance in North East India. The focus is on citizen services delivery, health, education, livelihood, enterprise promotion, and youth and women empowerment in the region. The previous editions of e-North East Award Summit were in Assam, Nagaland, Sikkim and Arunachal Pradesh.
